

Putter Please?

Putts Please? is a side game where before the round starts a golfer predicts the number of putts they will have in that round. The hitch is that before play starts you trade or switch putters with another player in your pairing. Winner is the golfer who gets their prediction or nearest without going over.